

As an internet savvy person, I am very alarmed at the prospect of deregulating broadband service carriers. I believe the only way you can protect consumers is by ensuring that the few companies that appear to own all the lines are required to allow small ISPs to utilize those lines. I use a small ISP company that provides the features and services that I need to operate, and that none of the big ISP's, like SBC or Comcast, provide or plan on providing. Losing these features or the services provided by small ISPs would be devastating to my day to day work. Please protect consumers and continue to regulate the big companies that own all the lines.